HIGHLIGHTS

The Second Session of the 31st Legislature is moving right along. Bills are being heard. Budget override votes already have been cast.

No time to waste as they tackle this year's toothy agenda. The budget, PFD's, and taxes will dominate. The recall lurks in the shadows.

Rep. Wilson announced she was leaving the Legislature during Friday's Floor session to join the Dunleavy administration as a policy adviser in the Department of Health and Social Services. Click here for more info: DHSS Statement on hiring Tammie Wilson

But can she? The appointment may run afoul of Article II Section 5 of the state's constitution, which prohibits legislators from taking state jobs that were created or had a pay increase while they were in office.

The Senate stripped Majority Caucus members of Committee Chairmanships (Showers, Reinbold, Hughes) and revised several committees' membership. The fallen Senators claim retaliation for their full dividend votes. President Giessel said the action was taken because caucus rules were broken.

Sens Micciche and Showers were removed from Finance and not replaced leaving the committee with seven members. Sen. Micciche was appointed Resources Chair. See the full list of Senate committee changes here: Senate Committee on Committees Report

Structural changes in the House included moving Rep. Spohnholz to be chair of Labor and Commerce, Rep. Zulkosky will be the sole chair of Health and Social Services with Spohnholz moving to vice-chair. Rep. Johnston will serve as co-chair of Finance and Rep. Ortiz is now vice-chair.

The override votes were taken on two issues: School bond debt payments to cities and $5 million for the Alaska Marine Highway System. Both failed, 37-20.

In Alaska, you need 45 out of 60 votes to overturn a Governor's veto but that may be changing. SJR 14 / HJR 15 sponsored by the Senate Judiciary Committee and Rep. Kreiss-Tomkins respectively, proposes an amendment to the Constitution changing the number of votes needed to override a veto from $\frac{3}{4}$ down to $\frac{2}{3}$.

On Friday, the Legislative Budget and Audit Committee (LB&A) selected Pat Pitney as the new director of the Division of Legislative Finance. Pitney will replace David Teal, who retired last month after holding the position for 22 years.

Pitney was director of the Office of Management and Budget under Gov. Bill Walker. Prior to that, Pitney was vice chancellor for administrative services at the University of Alaska Fairbanks.

The Governor's proposed 2021 budget does not call for big spending cuts. He says he wants to work with Alaskans to figure out how best to close the gap between spending and earning.

Out of state prisoners no more. Commissioner Dahlstrom just cancelled the controversial RFP for moving prisoners out of state. She found some in-state options, including a pilot program to house inmates with a year or less to go in a dedicated community center.

The Department of Health and Social Services released a court ordered plan explaining how they will keep mental health patients from being warehoused in emergency rooms and jails cells while they wait for the rare treatment bed. The 30 page document also includes quick fixes, e.g. changes to patient admission prioritization.

Legislators participating in the bi-cameral Permanent Fund Working Group created last year made one major recommendation: Don't draw more from the fund than allowed under a law passed two years ago. They didn't address the dividend formula.

A Task Force of legislators, the VPSO Working Group, is suggesting an overhaul of key elements of the state's Village Public Safety Program (VPSO). Bills will be filed soon that would offer 9 short-term ideas for improvements.

The Finance Committee in both bodies assigned subcommittees to review each state department's budget requests and to develop recommendations for funding based on those requests. Finance Subcommittees are listed here: Finance Subcommittees

The Finance Committees hold hearings to get the big picture of the state's overall finances and the executive branch departments' intentions. Subcommittees hold hearings to work out the details of the individual departments.
